

Tungsten PARITON UI

The Tungsten PARITON UI strategy aims to achieve a stable absolute return by combining several different asset classes in a multi asset portfolio.

The Tungsten PARITON UI fund considers only those assets that deliver an attractive risk/return ratio. To avoid a one-sided allocation, weights to these assets are assigned using a special risk balancing method. The employment of such risk balancing promises high risk-adjusted returns (Sharpe ratios) as the aggregate portfolio risk is managed very effectively. Due to the low risk nature of certain asset classes the fund may employ leverage in order to achieve a relatively constant level of volatility. The expected return of the strategy is 3%-6% p.a. above Euribor (1m).

Monthly comment

“Shocktober” in the stock markets. The S&P500 lost almost 7%, the Nasdaq even more than 8%, the most since November 2008. Falling prices also on the credit markets, which continued their negative trend of the year. One of the few positive markets since the beginning of the year - US high yields - lost also as much as 2%. Unlike in other equity market corrections (eg. February 2016), the October sell off did not result in significantly lower US Treasury yields. Thus, there were hardly any opportunities at the multi-asset level to achieve positive diversification effects. Only 10-year Bunds gained about 1%, a drop in the bucket. Despite historically high equity quotas, PARITON remained reasonably stable due to some hedging. Nevertheless, with a minus of 2.45%, we notice the second worst month since the fund was launched.
